

Customer Onsite Education & Training and Technology Workshop Services program

Skills and expertise to help you increase the business value from your IBM Power Systems investment.

Bring the instructor to your classroom

With onsite training, you get the same top quality education offered in classrooms at much lower cost. We can deliver AIX and storage courses in a private format, allowing you eliminating travel and hotel expenses. It also provide greater flexibility in terms of scheduling the class as per your preferred dates, your time and the place.

Customizing the workshop contents

To provide a greater flexibility, you can request one course or a training program incorporating multiple courses into one. We shall deliver each course as a standard offering or customized by deleting or reorganizing selected course contents. You can combine components from a number of AIX courses together and form one class based on three, four or five day duration.

Why our onsite training is tailor-made for maximum success.

Our onsite training offerings include:

- Customer can customized the contents
- Planning and design as per local in-house skills
